Other Information

Delivery: NAG generally makes its software and documentation available via download. Where this is not practical, or if you prefer to have physical media sent to you, NAG will despatch this soon after acceptance of your order – there may be an extra charge for this service.

License Management: Most NAG products are currently controlled by Licence Management software which must be installed on a control node for which NAG needs host name and host id information. In these circumstances, you will be given advice on how to access the necessary host information and return it to NAG so that an appropriate licence key can be issued.
